INTRODUCTION

Dhanamanjuri College, originally started with Arts stream, is located at the heart of Imphal city, the capital of Manipur, the land of Sangai and Shirui Lily. It has an illustrious saga of academic brilliance in the history of higher education in Manipur. Since its inception and blessed with the bounty of the then Maharani of Manipur, Dhanamanjuri Devi, this premier College of the state has been the alma mater of many an intellectual and individual of high professional calibre, forming the cream of Manipuri society. It was established in 1946 under the patronage of the then queen Dhanamanjuri Devi. The College grew up in size and enrolment with the introduction of Science subjects in 1951 and Commerce in 1954. The imparting of B.T. course started in 1959. However, the faculty of B.T. was soon separated to become a full-fledged Post Graduate Teacher Training College in 1972 now renamed as D.M. College of Teacher Education.

The growing prospects of the College came to outgrow the prevailing size and enrolment, as a result of which, by 1975, D.M. College was bifurcated into D.M. College of Science and D.M. College of Arts and Commerce. With the passage of time again, an earnest call for a separate Commerce College led to its further bifurcation into D M, College of Arts and D.M. College of Commerce on August 6, 1996, thereby witnessing the birth of D.M. College of Arts as a distinct entity, with its motto: Learn, Labour and Serve.

D.M. College of Arts continues to maintain academic excellence in the history of higher education in the state. The pre-eminence in the austere splendor of the original spirits, the institution has been witnessing a larger pre-admission rush, particularly of the students who are truly willing to learn. The holistic approach of the sincere, serious, committed and devoted teachers, who take teaching as a prime duty of life tend to substantiate the actual claim for excellence.

Now, with the opening of Post Graduate Courses in Education and English in tune with the 70th Anniversary of the College since 2016, D.M . College of Arts shall fulfill not only the long- felt need of the society but also generate the value-added services towards the overall health and progress of higher education in the state of Manipur. The College celebrated its Diamond Jubilee in 2006, the year the National Assessment and Accreditation Council (NAAC) awarded B+ grade to the College.
